China's Economic Rise Congressional Research Service,2017-09-17 Prior to the initiation of economic reforms and trade liberalization 36 years ago China maintained policies that kept the economy very poor stagnant centrally controlled vastly inefficient and relatively isolated from the global economy Since opening up to foreign trade and investment and implementing free market reforms in 1979 China has been among the world s fastest growing economies with real annual gross domestic product GDP growth averaging nearly 10% through 2016 In recent years China has emerged as a major global economic power It is now the world s largest economy on a purchasing power parity basis manufacturer merchandise trader and holder of foreign exchange reserves The global economic crisis that began in 2008 greatly affected China s economy China s exports imports and foreign direct investment FDI inflows declined GDP growth slowed and millions of Chinese workers reportedly lost their jobs The Chinese government responded by implementing a 586 billion economic stimulus package and loosening monetary policies to increase bank lending Such policies enabled China to effectively weather the effects of the sharp global fall in demand for Chinese products but may have contributed to overcapacity in several industries and increased debt by Chinese firms and local government China s economy has slowed in recent years Real GDP growth has slowed in each of the past six years dropping from 10.6% in 2010 to 6.7% in 2016 and is projected to slow to 5.7% by 2022 The Chinese government has attempted to steer the economy to a new normal of slower but more stable and sustainable economic growth Yet concerns have deepened in recent years over the health of the Chinese economy On August 11 2015 the Chinese government announced that the daily reference rate of the renminbi RMB would become more market oriented Over the next three days the RMB depreciated against the dollar and led to charges that China's goal was to boost exports to help stimulate the economy which some suspect is in worse shape than indicated by official Chinese economic statistics Concerns over the state of the Chinese economy appear to have often contributed to volatility in global stock indexes in recent years The ability of China to maintain a rapidly growing economy in the long run will likely depend largely on the ability of the Chinese government to implement comprehensive economic reforms that more quickly hasten China's transition to a free market economy rebalance the Chinese economy by making consumer demand rather than exporting and fixed investment the main engine of economic growth boost productivity and innovation address growing income disparities and enhance environmental protection The Chinese government has acknowledged that its current economic growth model needs to be altered and has announced several initiatives to address various economic challenges In November 2013 the Communist Party of China held the Third Plenum of its 18th Party Congress which outlined a number of broad policy reforms to boost competition and economic efficiency For example the communique stated that the market would now play a decisive role in allocating resources in the economy At the same time however the communique emphasized the continued important role of the state sector in China's economy In addition many foreign firms have complained that the business climate in China has worsened in recent years Thus it remains unclear how committed the Chinese government is to implementing new comprehensive economic reforms China's economic rise has significant implications for the United States and hence is of major interest to Congress This report provides background on China's economic rise describes its current economic structure identifies the challenges China faces to maintain economic growth and discusses the challenges opportunities and implications of China's economic rise
