African Cattle Herders Zeremariam Fre,2018-06-20 Beni Amer cattle owners in the western part of the Horn of Africa are not only masters in cattle breeding they are also knowledge sovereign in terms of owning productive genes of cattle and the cognitive knowledge base crucial to sustainable development The strong bonds between the Beni Amer their animals and their environment constitute the basis of their ways of knowing and much of their knowledge system is built on experience and embedded in their cultural practices In this book the first to study Beni Amer practices Zeremariam Fre argues for the importance of their knowledge challenging the preconceptions that regard it as untrustworthy when compared to scientific knowledge from more developed regions Empirical evidence suggests that there is much one could learn from the other since elements of pastoralist technology such as those related to animal production and husbandry make a direct contribution to our knowledge of livestock production It is this potential for hybridisation as well as the resilience of the herders at the core of the indigenous knowledge system Fre also argues that indigenous knowledge can be viewed as a stand alone science and that a community s rights over ownership should be defended by government officials development planners and policy makers making the case for a celebration of the knowledge sovereignty of pastoralist communities Praise for Knowledge Sovereignty Among African Cattle Herders This book greatly contributes to the limited literature on theoretical discourses and practices on indigenous knowledge of livestock herding communities in the Horn of Africa It discusses knowledge heritage and sovereignty through the presentation of valid empirical evidence and its subsequent relevance in nurturing sustainability of knowledge systems to enhance lives of pastoralists in Africa and beyond Samuel Tefera PhD Assistant Professor and Asian Desk Coordinator at the Centre for African and Oriental Studies Associate Dean for Research and
