potential operating environments the U S Air Force faces adversaries that are increasingly capable of limiting where and how it projects combat power Whether the environments are called anti access area denial environments or contested degraded and operationally limited CDO environments they feature adversaries with larger numbers of more precise missiles that have further reach than before and that threaten traditional U S air bases like never before To persevere in CDO environments the Air Force and regional warfighting commanders are exploring a variety of alternative force deployment and employment concepts under an umbrella initiative called adaptive basing AB Upon surveying the variety of concepts categorized as part of AB the authors found that all of them adaptive or not can be characterized as survival strategies Thus AB is less about increasing the adaptiveness of aircraft and air forces than it is about extending their survivability through strategies that are both traditional and adaptive In this report RAND researchers review the motivations for AB describe a footprint model used for estimating the AB implications for Agile Combat Support ACS estimate the ACS requirements to perform three fundamental competencies that can enable AB concepts consider the obstacles to supporting those requirements and discuss the implications and recommendations for the ACS community and the Air Force at large Ultimately it will take a more concerted deliberate and organized effort to flesh out and refine AB concepts into useable warfighting tools Some concepts might be discarded for reasons of feasibility cost or effectiveness but if the threats perceived today are credible AB ought to be tested and found wanting rather than declared to be too difficult without sufficient investigation
