One-Day, One-Problem Glen O'Grady, Elaine Yew, Karen P.L. Goh, Henk Schmidt, 2012-04-13 One day one problem is a unique adaptation of problem based learning PBL pioneered at Republic Polytechnic Singapore Here students are challenged each day with a problem from their domain and attain the necessary learning outcomes in the process of responding to the problem Throughout the day students would engage in small group discussions self directed learning and conversations with their teacher who plays the role of a facilitator This approach to learning and instruction represents a new brand of constructivist learning in a more structured learning environment compared to conventional PBL This book contains a series of chapters by authors with first hand experience in the One day one problem PBL approach Unlike other books on PBL the chapters are both research informed and practical Results of empirical studies into the factors of PBL such as quality of problems tutor behaviours scaffoldings student learning and interest are discussed together with practical implications for the educator The book begins with an overview of the one day one problem process providing a viewpoint from both the student and tutor Republic Polytechnic s pedagogical philosophy and epistemological belief of education are introduced with the intent to share how the polytechnic designed and implemented a system that supports the philosophical beliefs Results and practical implications of empirical studies on the various factors that influence students learning in PBL are discussed These include the quality of problems and the use of scaffoldings for students learning tutors as facilitators preparation of staff for PBL student assessment how students learn in the process of PBL and student interest

approach to management and is written in an accessible style allowing for flexibility in both teaching and learning Used at both an undergraduate and postgraduate level Contemporary Management has a concise structure designed to meet the needs of trimesters and 12 week teaching schedules The uncluttered internal design alongside the modern treatment of the topic makes this text significantly different to other texts in the market It offers updated content to reflect the impact of the GFC and the increasing significance of diversity culture and ethics There are all new in chapter case studies new Australian videos and a full range of excellent online resources Also this edition includes a new end of book section containing two unique integrated case studies exploring tourism management in Australian tourism destinations Skyrail in Cairns and Flinders Island Tasmania Publisher

Teaching for Learning and Learning for Teaching Christopher Klopper, Steve Drew, 2015-10-30 Teaching for Learning and Learning for Teaching focuses on the emerging global governmental and institutional agenda about higher education teaching quality and the role that peer review can play in supporting improvements in teaching and student outcomes This agenda is a pervasive element of the further development of higher education internationally through activities of governments global agencies institutions of higher education discrete disciplines and individual teachers Many universities have adopted student evaluations as a mechanism to appraise the quality of teaching These evaluations can be understood as providing a customer centric portrait of quality and when used as the sole arbiter of teaching performance they do not instil confidence in the system of evaluation by academic teaching staff Providing peer perspectives as counterpoint whether in a developmental or summative form goes some way to alleviating this imbalance and is the impetus for the resurgence of interest in peer review and observation of teaching This book seeks to recognise cases of peer review of teaching in Higher Education to affirm best practices and identify areas that require improvement in establishing local national and international benchmarks of teaching quality
