Warm Beer, Lousy Food John S. Columbia,2009-12 The line began forming after eight o'clock Sal short and heavy set kept everyone busy Neat in a white shirt and sports jacket with his grey fedora cocked to the side his crooked grin made you smile Without warning the heavy door would swing open and the waiters would come outside to join him They were dressed in pajamas or prison garb with hats and horns and were there to warm up the crowd Some in line expected this others were shocked The pink polka dot building should have been a warning Complete strangers in line became chummy exchanging stories they had heard toilet seat covers to serve drinks on microphones in the ladies room toilet paper for napkins Most had brought their friends there to be roasted The line of people varied in age They all dressed casually because they'd heard you could get a pie in the face or a squirt in the eye The club's routines were blue in color but harmless If you were lucky you might see a Balls for the Queen or a Singing beer The price was always right for a good time and Warm Beer and Lousy Food was the place to be

Inventing the Internet Janet Abbate,2000-07-24 Janet Abbate recounts the key players and technologies that allowed the Internet to develop but her main focus is always on the social and cultural factors that influenced the Internet's design and use Since the late 1960s the Internet has grown from a single experimental network serving a dozen sites in the United States to a network of networks linking millions of computers worldwide In Inventing the Internet Janet Abbate recounts the key players and technologies that allowed the Internet to develop but her main focus is always on the social and cultural factors that influenced the Internet's design and use The story she unfolds is an often twisting tale of collaboration and conflict among a remarkable variety of players including government and military agencies computer scientists in academia and industry graduate students telecommunications companies standards organizations and network users The story starts with the early networking breakthroughs formulated in Cold War think tanks and realized in the Defense Department's creation of the ARPANET It ends with the emergence of the Internet and its rapid and seemingly chaotic growth Abbate looks at how academic and military influences and attitudes shaped both networks how the usual lines between producer and user of a technology were crossed with interesting and unique results and how later users invented their own very successful applications such as electronic mail and the World Wide Web She concludes that such applications continue the trend of decentralized user driven development that has characterized the Internet's entire history and that the key to the Internet's success has been a commitment to flexibility and diversity both in technical design and in organizational culture
