Accountability through Public Opinion Sina Odugbemi, Taeku Lee, 2011-05-10 This book analyses the role of public opinion for generating genuine citizen demand for accountability providing case studies from around the world to illustrate how public opinion forces governments to be accountable

Accountability Through Public Opinion Sina Odugbemi, Taeku Lee, 2011 Accountability has become a buzzword in international development Development actors appear to delight in announcing their intention to promote accountability but it is often unclear what accountability is and how it can be promoted This book addresses some questions that are crucial to understanding accountability and for understanding why accountability is important to improve the effectiveness of development aid We ask What does it mean to make governments accountable to their citizens How do you do that How do you create genuine demand for accountability among citizens how do you move citizens from inertia to public action The main argument of this book is that accountability is a matter of public opinion Governments will only be accountable if there are incentives for them to do so and only an active and critical public will change the incentives of government officials to make them responsive to citizens demands Accountability without public opinion is a technocratic but not an effective solution In this book more than 30 accountability practitioners and thinkers discuss the concept and its structural conditions the relationship between accountability information and the media the role of deliberation to promote accountability and mechanisms and tools to mobilize public opinion A number of case studies from around the world illustrate the main argument of the book Public opinion matters and an active and critical public is the surest means to achieve accountability that will benefit the citizens in developing countries This book is designed for policy makers and governance specialists working within the international development community national governments grassroots organizations activists and scholars engaged in understanding the interaction between accountability and public opinion and their role for increasing the impact of international development interventions

Closing the Rights Gap LaDawn Haglund, Robin Stryker, 2015-03-21 Rights language and practices have been used increasingly in the last decade to address conditions of economic social and cultural marginalization It is still unclear however whether such efforts have been effective at promoting transformative social change Have rights as embodied in constitutions statutory and judicial law international conventions resolutions and treaties fostered demonstrative improvements in the lives of the excluded When where how and under what conditions This volume explores these questions through a systematic comparison of the mechanisms actors and pathways MAPs operating in a diversity of cases analyzed by established scholars from different disciplinary backgrounds The MAPs comparative approach provides insights into the conditions under which and institutions through which rights on the books are more or less effectively translated into substantive rights realization We suggest multiple pathways in which litigation may combine with non legal mechanisms and strategies including institutionalized and non institutionalized politics and global and local networks and advocacy The volume is unique in its synthesis and advancement of parallel issues and debates across different disciplines and geographic regions it likewise brings into dialogue scholars of economic social and cultural rights with the scholarship on civil and political rights These cross fertilizations allow us to conclude by proposing a series of testable hypotheses about how economic and social rights might be realized as well as an agenda for future research to broaden and deepen empirical integration and theoretical synthesis in ways that can facilitate human rights realization worldwide Provided by publisher Reframing Community

Partnerships in Education Miguel A. Guajardo, Francisco Guajardo, Christopher Janson, Matthew Militello, 2015-09-16 Reframing Community Partnerships in Education provides both the theoretical framework as well as a practical guide to engage educators in interdisciplinary inter organizational multicultural and multi generational work to improve the social fabric of communities Using case examples of best practice this book explores transformational practices for community development community building and civic engagement Featuring Community Learning Exchange pedagogies adaptable to a wide range of contexts this book encourages educators through use of participatory practices and a collective leadership model to build stronger communities and advance learning for all Politics Is for Power Eitan Hersh, 2020-01-14 A brilliant condemnation of political hobbyism treating politics like entertainment and a call to arms for well meaning well informed citizens who consume political news but do not take political action Who is to blame for our broken politics The uncomfortable answer to this question starts with ordinary citizens with good intentions We vote sometimes and occasionally sign a petition or attend a rally But we mainly engage by consuming politics as if it s a sport or a hobby We soak in daily political gossip and eat up statistics about who s up and who s down We tweet and post and share We crave outrage The hours we spend on politics are used mainly as pastime Instead we should be spending the same number of hours building political organizations implementing a long term vision for our city or town and getting to know our neighbors whose votes will be needed for solving hard problems We could be accumulating power so that when there are opportunities to make a difference to lobby to advocate to mobilize we will be ready But most of us who are spending time on politics today are focused inward choosing roles and activities designed for our short term pleasure We are repelled by the slow and steady activities that characterize service to the common good In Politics Is for Power pioneering and brilliant data analyst Eitan Hersh shows us a way toward more effective political participation Aided by political theory history cutting edge social science as well as remarkable stories of ordinary citizens who got off their couches and took political power seriously this book shows us how to channel our energy away from political hobbyism and toward empowering our values Democracy in Motion Tina Nabatchi, John Gastil, 2012-11-29 Democracy in Motion uses theory research and practice to comprehensively explore what we know how we know it and what remains to be understood about deliberative civic engagement The book is useful to scholars practitioners public officials activists and citizens who seek to utilize deliberative civic engagement in their communities Deweyan Transactionalism in Education Jim Garrison, Johan Öhman, Leif Östman, 2022-02-24

Philosophers of education are largely unaware of Dewey's concept of transactionalism yet it is implicit in much of his philosophy educational or otherwise from the late 1890s onwards Written by scholars from Belgium Italy Norway Sweden and the USA this book shows how transactionalism can offer an entirely new way of understanding teaching and learning the individual and sociocultural dimension of education and educational research The contributors show how the concept helps us to see beyond an array of false dualisms such as mind versus body self versus society and organism versus environment as well as an equally vast array of binaries such as inside outside presence absence and male female They introduce the key critical ideas that transactionalism represents including emergence living in a world without a within the temporally and extensionally distributed nature of meaning mind and self The use and elaboration of transactionalism is grounded in philosophical inquires and in empirical analyses of practices in formal and informal settings including values education early childhood education biology education museum education coding and computer science Oceanographic and Atmospheric study policy reform play and the Covid 19 pandemic
