

CHAPTER 2
COST TERMS, CONCEPTS AND CLASSIFICATIONS

I. Answers to Questions

1. A cost object is anything for which a separate measurement of costs is desired. Examples include a product, a service, a project, a customer, a brand category, an activity, a department and a program.
2. Cost assignment is a general term that encompasses both (1) tracing accumulated costs to a cost object and (2) allocating accumulated costs to a cost object.
Cost tracing is the assignment of indirect costs to a chosen cost object.
Cost allocation is the assigning of indirect costs to a chosen cost object.
 The relationship between these terms is as follows:

3. Cost reduction efforts frequently focus on:
 1. Doing only value-added activities, and
 2. Efficiently managing the use of the cost drivers in those value-added activities.
4. Descriptions of the three sectors are:
 - Service-sector companies provide services or intangible products to their customers—for example, legal advice or an audit. These companies do not have any inventory of intangible products at the end of an accounting period.
 - Merchandising-sector companies provide tangible products they have previously purchased in the same basic form from suppliers. Merchandise purchased from suppliers but not sold at the end of an accounting period is held as inventory.
 - Manufacturing-sector companies provide tangible products that have been converted to a different form from the products purchased from suppliers. At the end of an accounting period, inventory of a manufacturer can include direct materials, work in process and finished goods.

Thus, manufacturing and merchandising companies have inventory, while service companies do not. Manufacturing companies have direct materials, work in process and finished goods inventories, whereas merchandising companies have only goods purchased for resale inventory (merchandise inventory).
