Batteries in a Portable World, 2016      Modern Approaches for Intelligent Information and Database Systems

Andrzej Sieminski, Adrianna Kozierekiewicz, Manuel Nunez, Quang Thuy Ha, 2018-02-23 This book offers a unique blend of reports on both theoretical models and their applications in the area of Intelligent Information and Database Systems The reports cover a broad range of research topics including advanced learning techniques knowledge engineering Natural Language Processing NLP decision support systems Internet of things IoT computer vision and tools and techniques for Intelligent Information Systems They are extended versions of papers presented at the ACIIDS 2018 conference 10th Asian Conference on Intelligent Information and Database Systems which was held in Dong Hoi City Vietnam on 19 21 March 2018 What all researchers and students of computer science need is a state of the art report on the latest trends in their respective areas of interest Over the years researchers have proposed increasingly complex theoretical models which provide the theoretical basis for numerous applications The applications in turn have a profound influence on virtually every aspect of human activities while also allowing us to validate the underlying theoretical concepts      Numeracy in Authentic

Contexts Maura Sellars, 2017-10-25 This book is based on the notion that there are many ways in which mathematics learning can be achieved for students and that not all of them are focused on the mathematics classroom It explores the foundational numeracy principles of the non mathematical subject areas and aligns these to the Australian numeracy learning continuum It demonstrates in detail the extent to which numeracy competencies underpin successful learning in all the subject areas of the curricula It validates a focus of developing numeracy competencies through learning in the arts science and other discipline areas with which school students to engage with in order develop holistically but which are not subjected to national assessment practices It is developed around the notion of praxis putting theory into practice in order to respond to the urgent need for students to be supported in their efforts to increase their numeracy capabilities in a world where extensive amounts of new information are often presented in graphical or data based formats Additionally it offers perspectives on developing all students capacities to become numerate in school contexts and presents inclusive differentiated lesson examples as an alternative way of exploring numeracy in the context of teaching and learning in real world classroom contexts      Psychiatry and Neuroscience Update

Pascual Ángel Gargiulo, Humberto Luis Mesones Arroyo, 2018-12-11 This broad and thought provoking volume provides an overview of recent intellectual and scientific advances that bridge the gap between psychiatry and neuroscience offering a wide range of penetrating insights in both disciplines The third volume on the topic in the last several years from a varying panel of international experts this title identifies the borders trends and implications in both fields today and goes beyond that into related disciplines to seek out connections and influences Similar to its two Update book predecessors Psychiatry and Neuroscience Volume III presents the current state of the art in the main disciplines psychiatry and neuroscience and attempts to provide deeper comprehension or explication of the normal and diseased human mind its biological correlates and its biographical and existential implications This engaging volume continues the previous style of exploring different disciplines and trying to integrate disciplinary evidence from varying points of view in an organic manner Developed for clinicians and researchers in the fields of medicine psychiatry psychology and biology this third volume also will be of great interest to students and university professors of diverse disciplines

Expectations and Aspirations Safaa El Tayeb El-Kogali, Caroline Krafft, 2019-10-21 Education which has been at the heart of the Middle East and North Africa MENA region s history and civilizations for centuries has a large untapped potential to contribute to human capital well being and wealth The region has invested heavily in education for decades but it has not been able to reap the benefits of its investments Despite a series of reforms MENA has remained stuck in a low learning low skills level

Expectations and Aspirations A New Framework for Education in the Middle East and North Africa identifies four key sets of tensions that are holding back education in the region credentials and skills discipline and inquiry control and autonomy and tradition and modernity These tensions are shaped by society and are reflected in classrooms If they are not addressed MENA will continue to operate at a level below its potential This report outlines a new framework with a three pronged approach that can help address these tensions and unleash the potential of education in MENA A concerted push for learning that starts early for all children regardless of background with qualified and motivated educators and that leverages technology uses modern approaches and monitors learning outcomes A stronger pull for skills by all stakeholders in the labor market and society that involves coordinated multisystem reforms within and beyond the education system A new pact for education at the national level with a unified vision shared responsibilities and accountabilities Education is not just the responsibility of the education system it is everyone s business The push pull and pact framework offers an opportunity for MENA to move forward to reclaim its heritage of a learned region and to meet the expectations and aspirations of its people The current situation in MENA requires a renewed focus on education not just as a national priority for economic growth and social development but as a national emergency for stability peace and prosperity

History Of Famous Orators Marcus Tullius Cicero, 2023-06 Cicero is considered to be Rome's greatest orator and prose writer His writing is some of the best classical Latin still in existence Cicero introduced Rome to Greek philosophy and created the Latin philosophical vocabulary This book contains two selections Cicero's Brutus or History of Famous Orators was written during the end of the civil war in Africa It discusses all the Roman and Greek speakers of any note at the time The conference is supposed to have been held with Atticus and their friend Brutus The Orator was written shortly after and is a plan or critical delineation of what he esteemed the most finished eloquence or style of Speaking As the following Rhetorical Pieces have never appeared before in the English language I thought a Translation of them would be no unacceptable offering to the Public The character of the Author Marcus Tullius Cicero is so universally celebrated that it would be needless and indeed impertinent to say any thing to recommend them The first of them was the fruit of his retirement during the remains of the Civil War in Africa and was composed in the form of a Dialogue It contains a few short but very masterly sketches of all the Speakers who had flourished either in Greece or Rome with any reputation of Eloquence down to his own time and as he generally touches the principal incidents of their lives it will be considered by an attentive reader as a concealed epitome of the Roman history The conference is supposed to have been held with Atticus and their common friend Brutus in Cicero's garden at Rome under the statue of Plato whom he always admired and usually imitated in his dialogues and he seems in this to have copied even his double titles calling it Brutus or the History of famous Orators It was intended as a supplement or fourth book to three former ones on the qualifications of an Orator The second which is intitled The Orator was composed a very short time afterwards both of them in the 61st year of his age and at the request of Brutus It contains a plan or critical delineation of what he himself esteemed the most finished Eloquence or style of Speaking He calls it The Fifth Part or Book designed to complete his Brutus and the former three on the same subject It was received with great approbation and in a letter to Lepta who had complimented him upon it he declares that whatever judgment he had in Speaking he had thrown it all into that work and was content to risk his reputation on the merit of it But it is particularly recommended to our curiosity by a more exact account of the rhetorical composition or prosaic harmony of the ancients than is to be met with in any other part of his works As to the present Translation I must leave the merit of it to be decided by the Public and have only to observe that though I have not to my knowledge omitted a single sentence of the original I was obliged in some places to paraphrase my author to render his meaning intelligible to a modern reader My chief aim was to be clear and perspicuous if I have succeeded in that it is all I pretend to I must leave it to abler pens to copy the Eloquence of Cicero Mine is unequal to the task
